To Whom It May Concern,

Andrew Gerber may be the hardest working individual on the face of the earth. Day after day, year after year you can be sure the Mr. Gerber is on the grind and working to make every production and himself better.

He is a quick learner who can grasp concepts with little instruction, and has built up a pile of skills along the way including shooting video, editing, after effects and more. Most of all you can be sure that Andrew is ready to work hard and learn any skill or process without much training or instruction.

I have had the pleasure of teaching Mr. Gerber for two years, and watching him grow over the years. Andrew is the kind of person who takes pride in his organization and will be willing and able to go the extra mile when called upon. Andrew has learned through lots of hard work and personal hardships what it is like to have to lead in both the good times and the bad. He always gets the job done and will work hard to make sure it he is always improving.

Please give strong consideration to Andrew as your next employee. He has all the potential in the world and is a smart and motivated person. Mr. Gerber will be a tremendous asset to your program and will be someone you can be proud of for years to come.

Thank you,

Randall W. Scott
